Car Dealer Fined $30,000 After Detailer Injured

An Osborne Park vehicle dealership has been fined after a car detailer was hurt when he was struck by a car driven by an apprentice without a driving licence. Paceway Mitsubishi was fined $30,000 in the Perth Magistrates Court for failing to provide a working environment in which its employees were not exposed to hazards, and by that failure causing serious harm to an employee.

On 20 September 2007 Mr Cruikshank was in the process of cleaning the boot area of a Mitsubishi 380 in the wash bay area at the dealership when he was struck by a Mitsubishi Pajero which pushed him into the rear of the Mitsubishi 380 and crushed him between the two vehicles. Mr Cruikshank received multiple fractures to his pelvis and lower legs. The Mitsubishi Pajero was being driven by a 17-year-old first year apprentice mechanic employed by Paceway. The apprentice did not hold a driving licence at the time.

Magistrate Tavener was told that Paceway had a practice of allowing apprentices who only held their learner's permit to drive vehicles by themselves and unsupervised around the workplace, including the main driveway and areas accessed by pedestrians and other cars. WorkSafe argued that the apprentice had not been provided with adequate assessment by Paceway on the safe operation and movement of vehicles at the workplace and around the wash bay area where the incident took place. "It is clear that Paceway Mitsubishi did not take seriously their obligation to provide a safe working environment," WorkSafe Commissioner Nina Lyhne said. "All employers need to be aware of the need for adequate supervision and training." Blancoa Pty Ltd, trading as Paceway Mitsubishi, pleaded guilty and was ordered to pay costs of $1750.70.

2010 Employer E-learning Benchmarking Survey - June 2010

E-learning is now an integral component of training for Australian businesses. Employers are taking advantage of the flexibility of e-learning to provide timely and efficient access for employees to acquire and develop a wide range of skills and work related knowledge. The Australian Flexible Learning Framework's latest 2010 E-learning Benchmarking Survey of 800 employers shows that the use of e-learning in workplace continues to increase.

- 50% of Australian organisations use e-learning as part of structured or unstructured training they provide to their employees (up from 40% in 2009)
- 85% of employers said that they would encourage their employees to use e-learning if it was available (vs 81% in 2009)
- Employers who are engaged with the training system are also now more aware of and more satisfied with the e-learning services being offered by training providers
